

Thank You from the Management and Production Team!

Dear Readers,

It is hard to believe that with this issue, the Journal of Inclusive Postsecondary Education (JIPE) is publishing a fourth volume. Our history is brief but powerful. The journal's founding editors (Heidi Graff, Linda H. Mason, and Beth Myers), with editorial assistant Stacie Brady, began a journey into the complex world of journal publication in 2018, resulting in a first open-access peer-reviewed issue in June 2019. A year later, an important milestone was achieved - acceptance into the Directory of Open Access Journals. At the time, JIPE was recognized as being the first scholarly journal to focus exclusively on post-secondary special educational needs and was noted for its intellectual and methodological diversity. Our current 44% acceptance rate speaks to continuity in the quality of manuscripts accepted for publication.

On behalf of the current managing/production editorial team, we want to thank all those who have supported the work in JIPE. First, we want to thank the current JIPE editors - Heidi Graff, Beth Myers, and Clare Papay. Our editors are the heart and soul of the journal.

We also want to recognize the significant contributions made by Teukie Martin, in developing procedures for Plain Language Summaries, and by our copy editor Lesley Porcelli.

The excellent and timely work of the JIPE Editorial Board, and of all those who have provided reviews over the past four years, has been so important in advancing the journal. Your service to the journal, especially over these extremely difficult times, has been outstanding!

The JIPE management and production team thanks you!
